THE COLLECTION

What Is The American Asset Archive™ ?

The American Asset Archive™ is a deliberately assembled collection of 566 individually identified PropyKeys ERC-721 digital assets on Base, each associated with a specific real-world location or subject and preserved with its own Token ID and supporting descriptive and transaction record.

Together, the holdings form an onchain archive of American place and significance spanning finance, technology, artificial intelligence, energy, aerospace, national infrastructure, landmarks, cultural institutions, entertainment, luxury destinations, scarce geography, sports, ranching, Western heritage, medicine, research, and other parts of the American landscape.

The collection was assembled thematically rather than as 566 isolated acquisitions. Individual holdings repeatedly open into larger architectures: financial institutions, data centers, energy facilities, islands, landmarks, resorts, entertainment locations, regional histories, and other curated groups.

Alongside the RWA collection is an independently assembled portfolio of 105 Web3 TLDs, of which 94 exact namespaces are selected for this review, together with selected architectures from the Library of Invention™.

UNDERSTANDING THE DIGITAL ASSETS

The PropyKeys RWAs are digital assets associated with real-world locations and subjects. They do not represent title to the underlying physical properties. Relationships among RWAs, TLDs, and Library architectures identify documented or curatorially supported connections; any future transaction scope would be separately defined.

Invitation for Review

The American Asset Archive™ is presented for professional evaluation as a complete digital collection. I welcome the opportunity to provide the complete catalog, supporting blockchain provenance, TLD documentation, selected Library materials, and any additional information a reviewing party may require in determining whether the collection is appropriate for further evaluation, an auction estimate, potential consignment, private sale, acquisition, partnership, or another appropriate transaction strategy.
